St. James's, November 28.

THE following Addreſs having been tranſmitted to his Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle one of His Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been preſented to His Majeſty. Which Addreſs His Majeſty was pleaſed to receive very graciouſly.

To His moſt Excellent Majeſty King George the Second,

The humble Addreſs of the Preſident and Fellows of Harvard College in Cambridge in New-England.

May it pleaſe your Majeſty,

SMALL and unknown as we are, in reſpect of the great and famous Univerſities which adorn the Kingdoms of Great Britain, yet none of them can boaſt a more united Heart, or a more conſtant and fervent Zeal for the Proteſtant Succeſſion in your Majeſty's Perſon, and in your moſt ſerene and illuſtrious Houſe, than this your Majeſty's loyal and humble College in New-England.

We come ſad into the Royal Preſence, and late among the Train of Mourners, coming from a far diſtant Part of your Majeſty's Dominions, to pour our dutiful Tears over the Grave of the Great King your Father, our late Sovereign, of glorious Memory: But we bring Hearts full of Joy in your Majeſty's peaceful Acceſſion to the Throne over us; beſeeching the moſt High God to make your Throne greater, and your Reign a greater Bleſſing to the Nations, than that of the moſt glorious of your Predeceſſours.

Our Fathers were ſome of the old Puritans, ſo called from their purer Church State, and Way of Worſhip, and Manner of Godly Diſcipline, which in their Apprehenſion they ſought and practiſed. To their immortal Honour it muſt be remember'd and recorded, that as they ſought a quiet Seat and Retirement for themſelves and their Poſterity in the Deſerts of America; ſo they were likewiſe animated with a Proſpect of inlarging the Engliſh Empire in Regions not known to former Ages. And as under the Encouragement of Royal Charters granted them, they chearfully planted and ſubdued a vaſt Wilderneſs at their own Expence, and not without many Hardſhips and Hazards; ſo Religion was always their firſt and chief Care; and in order to that, Learning; in this they were ſingular among the Provinces, and we their Poſterity reap the Honour and happy Fruits of it.

In one of their firſt Towns they planted a Seminary for Learning, and called it by the worthy Name of Cambridge. In this College are taught the Learned Languages, the Liberal Arts and Sciences unto this Day; and from it our many Churches have, through the Favour of God, been ſupplied with Paſtors; and the higheſt Chairs of Honour among us have been ſometimes laudably filled, to the Service of the King, and the Good of the Country.

Nothing but Learning and good Morals are here required to qualify Perſons for the Honours and Favours of the Houſe, but they are equally diſpens'd unto Proteſtants of all Perſwaſions.

The Principles of Loyalty and Religion are here taught and inſtill'd into our Youth, and our many Churches are at this Day famous for their Zeal for the true Proteſtant Religion, according to the Doctrinal Articles of the Church of England; which Divine Truths we ſee with Joy ſecured to us in your Majeſty's Poſſeſſion of the Throne of your Anceſtors.

Our Prayer therefore to the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty is, That our Churches, and this College, which God has made the ſingular Ornament and Bleſſing of our Country, may ever have your Majeſty's Royal Favour and Protection; and alſo may find Grace in the Eyes of her Majeſty your Royal Conſort, who, with her Royal Offspring are to us as the Light of our Eyes, and the Breath of our Noſtrils.

That your Majeſty may long live and reign in the Hearts of all your Subjects, and at laſt in Life by Jeſus Chriſt, is the hearty Prayer of.

May it pleaſe your Majeſty,

Your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and obedient Subjects and Servants.

Benjamin Wadſworth, Preſident, in the Name of the Corporation.

Cambridge in New-England,
Sept. 4, 1727.

The

The following humble Addreſs of the Juſtices of the Peace of the County of Aberdeen, met at Aberdeen the 22d of September 1727, has been preſented to His Majeſty by Sir Peter Fraiſer, introduced by the Right Honourable the Earl of Deloraine Lord of the Bedchamber to His Majeſty in waiting. Which Addreſs His Majeſty was pleaſed to receive very graciouſly.

To the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty,

May it pleaſe your Majeſty,

PErmit us, Great Sir, amongſt the reſt of your loyal Subjects, who by their numerous Addreſſes from all Parts of your Kingdoms do expreſs their deep Concern they and we have for the Death of your Royal Father; at the ſame Time the Joy all your faithful Subjects have, to behold a Prince upon the Throne, not only endued with all Chriſtian and moral Virtues, but one that has had long the Benefit of the wiſe Example of your Royal Father, and who has aſſiſted with much Honour and Diſtinction in the auguſt Senate of Britain, that holds under God the Fate of Europe in their Hands; an Advantage for your Glory and the Happineſs of your Subjects, that few Succeſſours to theſe Realms has ever had: This great Felicity your Majeſty has, in reſpect to the Experience you have got in that School of Knowledge, promiſes to us and all your Subjects a Reign adorned with all human Bleſſings, attended with a wiſe Oeconomy of your vaſt Revenues, the true Sinews of War.

When we conſider the Steps that has brought your illuſtrious Family to the Throne of Britain, and overturned the pernicious Schemes of a late Miniſtry, we muſt own it's a ſuperior Power has given your Kingdoms the Felicity they enjoy under your auſpicious Reign; to which, it ſeems, you was called by a Voice from Heaven, that commanded the Aſſent of Men.

To whom, great Sir, ſhould we more naturally offer our Duty and Allegiance, than to a King, that beſides the excellent Qualities you poſſeſs, is eſtabliſhed on the Throne according to the ancient Conſtitution; and has in your Perſon and Royal Progeny, not only the Britiſh, but the Saxon Blood of the Kings of England.

Your Gracious Aſſurance to your Subjects in preſerving the Conſtitution in Church and State, is what we firmly believe from your Royal Word; nor can we ever doubt of it, when we remember the heroick Actions of your Anceſtors, who among the firſt did draw their conquering Swords in Defence of our Holy Religion, and the Proteſtant Intereſt; and at laſt ſtruggling in that glorious Cauſe, exchang'd an earthly for a celeſtial Crown,; for this Providence has given you the Britiſh but for a juſt Reward.

Though we have not the Honour that your Majeſty was born in this Iſland, yet we receive in you but what we lent to your native Country, in the Perſons of two Princeſſes, the one the fruitful Mother of an Emperour and many Princes, the other the Ornament of Europe and her own Sex.

We have no more to add but our Wiſhes That the Almighty God may give you Proſperity and Health; that your Arms and thoſe of your High Allies may ſtill be ſucceſsful and carry Victories and Blenheims where-ever they come.

Signed in Preſence and by Order of the Meeting, by Peter Fraiſer of Durris, Preſes.
